DCON Enterprises Project 1

Constructed by the team at DCON Enterprises, this stunning period-style abode has undergone a dramatic restoration process; through clever collaboration with Archiphilia Architects' designer Robert Sheng, DCON Enterprises was able to restore and retain the dwelling's heritage glory. Sitting partially demolished, without a roof and derelict for two years, DCON Enterprises carefully complied with council requirements, and set to work recreating the existing details of the home's front porch, installing double-glazed timber windows with colonial bars, period architraves and skirting, and a stunning deco archway entrance.

Stepping inside onto royal oak floorboards, this light-filled home's stunning neutral colour palette is calming to the senses, while rich pops of stained timber and crisp white joinery make an impressive impact in the open-plan kitchen and living space. Comprising elegant pendant lighting, a stunning marble kitchen island, Miele, Vzuga and Sub Zero appliances and a spacious butler's kitchen pantry for ample storage and convenience, this free-flowing kitchen provides ease of entertaining while still maintaining its graceful period charm with plantation shutters and rich antique furniture.

The home's opulent bathroom showcases gorgeous white marble stone with grey veining, alongside a free-standing bath and functional double basin. Travelling upstairs via the European oak stairs, each spacious bedroom features its own en suite, while the home's luscious master bedroom includes a distinguished four-poster bed, while chandeliers adorning the staircase's ceiling provide a magnificent touch.

Moving outside, the home's ample swimming pool is a treat for an active family, while the eye-catching landscaping from Miller Landscape Construction, including stone paving, refreshing greenery and a three-tier water feature, is an undoubted property highlight.
